

IWA/Science & Research Stream at Conference – Call for Papers

The International Water Association (IWA) of New Zealand and Water New Zealand and have come together to run an IWA/Science stream at the upcoming Water New Zealand conference to be held in Rotorua.

Get Your Research Published in Water Science and Technology

Arrangements have been made that papers presented in this stream will be peer reviewed and considered for publication in the leading international scientific journal Water Science and Technology

Authors of papers selected for oral presentation into this stream will be contacted with details re formatting their full papers to Water Science and Technology guideline.

Submit Your 500 Word Abstract Now

Authors wishing to present into this stream need to simply follow the process as for the main Water New Zealand Conference (see link below), but will need to select the IWA Science and Research stream. The call for papers requires an initial 500 word abstract in order to assess the suitability of the paper for inclusion in the conference.

Abstracts for this stream close 18 May 2011.

On behalf of the IWA NZ committee I encourage all scientists and engineers who are active or interested in water research to join us the conference.
